We confirm the following:

1. The above-referenced radio module has been integrated into the Fluke finished product without any modification to the RF circuitry or antenna characteristics of the certified module.
2. The radio parameters (frequency bands, output power, modulation, and RF characteristics) remain unchanged from those evaluated during the original certification of the module.
3. The host product does not alter, control, or modify the RF operating parameters of the certified radio module.
4. All RF functionality is performed by the pre-approved radio module, and integration into the host product does not affect the compliance of the module with applicable radio regulations.
5. The original test reports and certification documents for the radio module are provided as part of the supporting documentation.

This declaration is issued to support regulatory documentation requirements for the finished product.

Sincerely,

Name: Thomas M Smith
